Dear boys and girls,

We all absolutely love coming to Mullavilly Primary School each and every day. The main reason for that is you – the wonderful boys and girls we teach and interact with. One thing we love about our school is the feeling that we are all part of one big team. Every teacher, no matter what class they teach knows all of you individually and wants to help you to feel safe and reach your massive potentials.

That is why we are all sad at the thought that today (Friday 20th March) will be our last day with you this school year. We are sad at not being able to share all the special events that happen in Term 3 like sports day, the school fair and final assembly.

However there is a very good reason that this is all happening. There is a ‘bug’ going around the world at the minute that is making some people sick and the people in charge think they can look after us best if we stay apart for a little while. So we must be brave and do what they say. Our fabulous doctors and nurses are working very hard to make people better and no doubt they will.

Please listen to your mum and dad, look out for each other and be kind. Remember this will only be for a short while. If you are worried remember what we always say – ‘tell a safe adult’.

We are all still here for you during this strange time. We will be giving you work to complete (Yes – you don’t get out of that!) and helping to support you and your parents in any way that we can. And can you imagine how good it will feel to have our ‘team’ back together again.

Primary 7, you guys are very special – make sure you all call in to see us when school opens again – in fact why don’t we just delay your final assembly until September?

We will miss you all very much.

From the staff of Mullavilly Primary School
